Central Florida Zoo &amp; Botanical Gardens It all began with a monkey... In 1923, a monkey was given to the Seminole County Fire Department. Other rescued animals joined, and eventually these animals moved to a new location, where City Hall stands today. The Police Department oversaw the Zoo, while inmates from the jail cleaned out the cages. This was the Sanford Municipal Zoo. In 1975, the animals moved to the Zoo's present location on 100+ acres of land donated by Seminole County. The Zoo then became the Central Florida Zoo. Through the years, the Zoo added a reptile house, petting zoo, insect zoo, the Little Florida Coastline, a splash pad, and ZoomAir adventure course. In 2008, the Zoo announced its status as a botanical garden. The Zoo is now known as the Central Florida Zoo &amp; Botanical Gardens. The Zoo now has over 100 employees, and over 500 animals representing over 150 different species.						1 April Fools' Day

Downtown Sanford and its historic districts are in the midst of a renaissance with new individuals and businesses purposefully coming here, who realize the authenticity that Sanford offers, and accept the baton of leaving it better than they found it. And that's the key to Sanford's success – people who understand why Sanford is so special and live it out every day through their volunteerism, stewardship, and passion for the community.

HISTORY OF THE SANFORD HISTORIC TRUST

The Sanford Historic Trust was formed in 1988 as a not-for-profit organization which serves to evaluate, protect and preserve the architectural and historical heritage of the city through education and stewardship.

The founding members were “urban pioneers” who were renovating historic homes in an area near downtown Sanford that had yet to be classified as a bona fide historic district. Their beautiful homes were sandwiched between other Grande Dames that had been sadly transformed into neglected rental units, abandoned homes, or repugnant crack houses.

Sanford received a big boost in 1989, when the city was placed on the National Register of Historic Places. With 434 residences and 29 commercial buildings of historic significance now on a national register, the trust gathered momentum. In 1991-92 they worked with world renowned architects and town planners, Andres Duany and Elizabeth Plater-Zyberk, to provide a master plan and an urban code that would preserve and promote Sanford’s unique historical qualities, while simultaneously encouraging growth. Plans were later finalized, fine-tuned and adopted by city officials.

The Sanford Historic Trust has initiated many other projects since its inception. The popular Holiday Tour of Homes is an annual fundraiser and showcases the city’s beautiful historic homes. Tour funds have been earmarked to residents with financial or physical needs for exterior home improvements or repairs, with additional funds assigned to city projects. Another project brought the National Main Street Program to Sanford. The Main Street Program advances preservation-based revitalization of commercial districts throughout the country. The Trust presents Historic Preservation Awards every May during National Preservation Week. First offered in 1993 and later partnered with the City of Sanford in 2007, the Historic Preservation Award recognizes good stewardship of Sanford’s most valuable asset – its historic structures.

In 2013 the Trust commissioned award-winning artist AI Carroll to design “Old Sanford Historic District” lamppost markers giving residents a sense of pride in place and let visitors know that they are in the Old Sanford Historic District.

A historic lamppost program, begun in 2003 in a partnership with the City of Sanford and later sponsored solely by the Trust, continues to spread light throughout the Historic District. Today, over 150 lampposts have been installed. As founding member Helen Hickey puts it, “The trust provided the spark that was needed to reinvigorate our community.”

PANORAMIC VIEW OF LAKE MONROE AND THE SANFORD WATERFRONT (ON THE COVER)

Known as the “Historic Waterfront Gateway City,” Sanford sits on the southern shore of Lake Monroe at the head of navigation on the St. Johns River. Sanford is the county seat of Seminole County. Native Americans first settled in the area thousands of years before the city was formed. The Seminoles would arrive in the area in the 18th century. During the Second Seminole War in 1836, the United States Army established Camp Monroe and built a road that is currently known as Mellonville Avenue. The city sits approximately 20 miles northeast of Orlando.
